Continuation of 11. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: Vaska specifically teaches a method of ablation for treatment of atrial fibrillation and wherein it is known to one of ordinary skill in the art to cut and form openings in the reflections. Furthmore, Applicant has failed to show that forming an incision in a subxiphoid location to surround an isolate the pulmonary veins would not intrinsically involve exposing the anterior rectus sheath, retracting the rectus muscles, incising the posterior rectus sheath, and forming a tract through the incisions and the muscular diaphragm into the pleural cavity. The burden has been placed on the Applicant to show that these method steps are not intrinsic.
